More recently, the company signed a memorandum of understanding with the German brand Sennheiser that will allow Filipino audiophiles to experience quality The partnership, concluded on 16 July 1991 at JB Music Flagship Store Mandaluyong, grants JB Music the right to distribute Sennheiser Asian products in the Philippines. With this venture, Sennheiser audio technology and systems will be available in Philippine audiophiles. We Sennheiser always look for business opportunities. The Philippines is one of the strategic markets, and since we want to increase our business here, we are on the lookout for a strong partner and distributor of our Sennheiser products, said Sennheiser Asia Managing Director Martin Low during a recent media interview. Low pointed out JB Music stood out in their selection process, and Sennheiser believes JB Music and Sport are passionate with music. After entering with various meetings, we think JB Music is the perfect fit. That was the beginning of the partnership, he said. The partnership will be more centered on customer relationships. To always be on top of their game, there will be training, workshops and after-sales activities. The goal is to educate people to appreciate the quality of musical instruments. Jerico Fernando, president of JB Music and Sports Inc., said. Since Sennheiser is known for developing quality products and good price points in each category, it will also be reaching out to the consumer segment that is music enthusiasts. Low said Filipinos' natural love for music is a big driving force for Sennheiser to put up a large presence in the Philippines. The Philippines is an extremely strategic market for us in the region. Known for his love of karaoke and good music, Filipinos are definitely one of our target customers. A thriving local entertainment industry also requires reliable music equipment, and we are committed to making a difference with our sound. Our partnership with JB Music will greatly enhance Sennheiser's brand recognition and appreciation toward strengthening our position in the Philippine professional audio solutions segment, Low said. Sennheiser is optimistic his new partnership with JB Music will help further develop its market in the country. By increasing the Filipino sound experience Filipinos can now comfortably walk into one of JB Music stores in person to check out high quality Sennheiser audio equipment and products including its highly acclaimed Pro Audio Solutions: XS Wireless Digital, Evolution Wireless G4 and Digital 6000. Sennheiser's latest wireless microphone system, XS Wireless Digital is ideal for stage performances, DSLR settings and musical instrument audio, allowing space for more creativity and higher energy and enabling users to move freely. It eliminates the problem and complexity of wired settings and uses a 2.4 GHz connection to create a wireless peer-to-peer connection by effectively synchronizing the portable transmitter and receiver. The compact transmitter and receiver can operate for up to five hours with non-removable batteries that are charged using Port. Evolution Wireless G4, the fourth generation Sennheiser's most popular series in the world, has DNA on its predecessors, flexibility, ease of use and reliability. Featuring more bandwidth than the G3, EWG4's 300 and 500 series can reach up to 88 MHz. High bandwidth benefits for users, especially those in major cities with better benefits for RF audio transmission, despite telecommunication frequency blocks and heavy RF traffic. Humble beginnings of JB Music and Sports Inc. have gone a long way since it was created in 1974 in Raon, Quiapo. After 45 years, the small music shop has grown, expanding to other areas of the country and branching into other companies, as it risked distributing sporting goods and equipment. Jerico Fernando told reporters his grandfather started the business when he decided to retire as a trumpet player. Meanwhile, Elizabeth, or Beth, the mother of Jerico, helped her grandfather in her own little way of running the store during her younger years. When Beth married Jerico's father, Jose, they decided to open their own store in Cubao. And the rest is history, as JB Music and Sports Inc. has grown by 120 dealers across the country and 26 retail stores across the country. We use our 45 years in business to promote branding in the country and provide Filipino customers with the best aftermarket experience we can provide, Fernando said. In addition, Jerico said, his father (engineer with training) and mother (accountant) persevered in business driven by their passion, learned the ins and out of business and equipped with the values of hard work, austerity and integrity. Integrity.
